Thanks for all the great info. No, I do not own one but called about one for sale and the owner couldn't tell me much about it. The machine is located a fair distance away so I wanted some more info to see if it would be worth the drive.

The factory on/off switch failed about 5 months after I got the Mill. The P.O. told me he had to replace it once as well. I tried to find the factory replacement but didn't have a lot of luck sourcing it I did find it but it wasn't going to be easy to get again when it failed the third time.
